Summary

- EU membership is still supported by more than a half of citizens – 53%. The percentage of those opposing EU membership has remained the same as in the previous wave – 25%.

- 40% of Serbian citizens have a positive reaction to the image of the EU. There is a slight decrease in the number of citizens who have a negative reaction.

- Every sixth Serbian citizen believes that the negotiations with Pristina are the most important event regarding the EU accession, and only every tenth citizen mentioned opening of negotiation chapters.

- As the greatest cause of deceleration of our country’s accession to the EU, the citizens have identified conditioning and blackmail the EU applies towards our country. This is believed by every fourth citizen of Serbia. Every seventh citizen believes that the mentality of our people and the current situation within the European Union are the causes of deceleration.

- 6 out of 10 Serbian citizens believe that the issue between Belgrade and Pristina should be resolved regardless of the EU’s expectations, while less than a third of citizens believe that any issue can be resolved with Pristina, except for the status of Kosovo*.

- Serbia’s EU membership is a good thing according to 43% of citizens, while 20% of them believe it to be a bad thing. There has been a rise in the number of those who think that membership is neither a good nor a bad thing for Serbia.

- For Serbian citizens, the EU represents more employment opportunities (17%), the possibility to travel within the EU (16%) and a path towards a better future for youth (15%).

- The number of citizens who believe that they would personally not benefit from Serbia’s EU accession (22%) is greater than the number of those who believe the country would not benefit (12%).

- Serbian citizens would rather change their previous life habits (e.g. sort garbage for recycling, pay a deposit for PET packaging, save energy, water) and work habits (working hours, vacation, benefits), 48% and 41% respectively, than pursue further studies, retraining or professional development (36% said they were ready) and, particularly, than continue living under unsatisfying standards for some more time (22% said they were ready).
• The concern that EU membership will jeopardize the national identity and culture, as well as the concern that EU membership will bring more problems to domestic farmers, are the most frequently cited reasons for concern, 30% and 32%, respectively. The end of the national currency and the loss of social benefits due to EU accession is something that generally does not worry Serbian citizens, similar to the previous poll.

• 40% Serbian citizen says that several negotiation chapters have been opened when asked about the current status of our country’s EU accession negotiations.

• 68% Serbian citizens believe that reforms should be carried out regardless of the fact that they are a condition for EU membership. Traditionally, they believe that the fight against corruption (20%) is the most important reform, i.e. the one that has the most positive effect on their everyday lives. Healthcare system reform and better protection of human rights are also among the most important reforms, at 16% and 13%, respectively.

• The fight against corruption (14%) stands out as the area where Serbia has achieved the greatest progress.

• With regard to the level of knowledge on the topics related to EU funds, 34% of the citizens said they would like to be informed on specific projects in Serbia financed from EU funds. The amount of assistance depending on the status (in the sense of how much is that now, and how much when Serbia becomes an EU Member State) is the second most frequent topic that 22% of Serbian citizens wanted to be informed on.

• Similar to the previous poll, every third citizen has heard of a project financed from EU funds, while most of them have heard of projects in the field of environmental protection (17%) and healthcare (13%).

• The European Union, China, Russia, and Japan have been the largest donors to Serbia since 2000, according to 23%, 22%, 20% and 9% of respondents, respectively. The United States of America have again taken the sixth place, although the facts put it at a high second place according to the amount of funds donated to Serbia.

• 27% of citizens believe that the EU will overcome current issues, but that it will be reluctant to accept new members.

• The opinion that primarily Switzerland, as well as Germany, should be country models Serbia should look up to is shared by 28% and 20% of Serbian citizens, respectively.
